with translation assistance from Google Gemini

Fürstenwerder was the name (since about 1830) of an independent Mennonite congregation, which formerly belonged to the Flemish Mennonite congregation in the Grosse Werder and was called the "Bärwald'sches Quartier;" from 1809 until around 1830 it was known as Bärwalde and had its own elder. Since 1768 there had been a meetinghouse in Fürstenwerder, which had been preserved without any important alterations until 1990 when it was destroyed by fire.

The old church registers were destroyed by fire in 1881.

Square brackets indicate corrections to errors in the original document or additional information.

Notes: the original will sometimes use the phrase "von daselbst" to refer to the previous village but in this list the village name has been used.
