

1863 Molotschna Colony Grain Loan Lists

State Archives of Odessa Region, Fund 6, Inventory 4, File 21178

Extracted by Tim Janzen

This web site makes available an extraction Tim Janzen did of a list of heads of households in the Molotschna Colony in South Russia in 1863. The original document from which the list has been extracted is located in File #21178 in Fund 6, Inventory 4 in the State Archives of Odessa Region in Odessa, Ukraine. Due to a poor harvest secondary to heavy snow the previous year the Mennonites in the Molotschna Colony were in need of loans of grain. These loans came from grain stored by the colony. There were typically loans of both winter wheat and summer wheat. The documents in the file are arranged by village. For each village there was a list of heads of households who received grain loans as well as a corresponding list of heads of households who signed the document. Those who signed the document appear to all have been landowners in the village. Those who received grain loans were in some cases landowners and in other cases were landless (Anwohner or Einwohner). In some cases almost all of the landowners in the village also received loans (Kleefeld, Hutterthal, Johannesruh) whereas in other villages relatively few of the landowners received grain loans.

Extractions of these grain loan lists are available in several versions. In the original version Janzen attempted to spell the names of the heads of households exactly as they appear in the original documents. The villages are also in the same order in which they are found in the original file.

The following table is the original version; the document date for the Klippenfeld list is assumed to be 1 November 1863:

There are six columns in each list. In the first column the name of the village is given. The second column includes a number that was given next to those who received grain loans if such a number was recorded in the original document. A comparison of these numbers to the household numbers given in the 1861-1862 Molotschna School Registers reveals that these numbers were the homestead number where the person lived with the exception of the village of Halbstadt. If the person had a homestead number included in the list then they were very likely a landowner. The third and fourth columns give the first name and surname of the people found in the lists. The fifth column heading is called “Status”. If the person only received a grain loan, but was not a signer of the document then they have the entry “grain loan”. If the person only signed the document but did not receive a grain loan then they have the entry “signer”. If they both received a grain loan and were a signer of the document then they have the entry “both” in the two merged versions. It is possible that as I merged the people who signed the document with those that received the grain loans that two different people were incorrectly merged into one. However, this is likely to have been the case in a relatively small number of the merges. In the fifth column I have added any comments that were written next to those who received grain loans. I have translated “Wirte” as “landowner”, “Ahnohner” as “resident”, and “Einwohner” as “inhabitant”. In the sixth column I have added the frame number on the microfilm where the person’s name is given. If they were both a signer of the document and a recipient of a grain loan then in most cases two different frame numbers are given. In the seventh column the date the document was written is given. The dates fall between September 30, 1863 and November 1, 1863 with the most common date being around October 22, 1863.

There are a total of 1,958 heads of households listed in the merged versions and 2,352 heads of households listed in the original version. There are lists for 47 villages in the Molotschna Colony, as well as the two nearby Hutterite villages, Johannesruh and Hutterthal. The 47 villages in the Molotschna Colony for which there are lists are as follows:

In addition, there are three village lists that were created between January 31, 1863 and February 12, 1863 that are also included in the beginning of File 21178. These lists are for the villages of Alexanderkrone, Hierschau, and Rueckenau. The lists are included on this web site as separate files in an original version as the data appears in the original documents and as a modified version in which the data is sorted by surname after the names were standardized. There are 70 people included in these 3 lists.
