The year 1818 saw dramatic developments for the Hutterites in Russia. The community split approximately in half. One half wanting to keep the old traditions and communal living, the other half wanting to have private property and join the Mennonites. This is described on pages 614 to 631 of the English translation of the Hutterian Chronicles. There is also copious Russian government documentation on this situation as found in the archives in St. Petersburg, Russia (RGIA) and the archives of the Guardianship Committee for Foreign Settlers in Odessa.

List of families that have separated from the Radichev Brotherhood of Mennonites (Hutterites) and intend to settle in the Novorossia (New Russia) region, indicating the number of families, as well as the number of widows and orphans.
